Year 4 visit the National Maritime Museum

To support their learning about the Vikings, year 4 visited the National Maritime Museum in Greenwich this week. Here is what they had to say about it:

I loved this trip because it helped me a lot with my knowledge about the Vikings. I never knew that the Vikings preferred to trade than raid. But that is not the only thing I liked, the workshop we took part in helped me so so much in my learning and my education. (Eva)

I learnt about monks in Viking times and I was asked to act out being a dead Viking soldier. This work related to Minecraft. It gave me ideas as to what I could build in my Anglo-Saxon village. (Jo-Jo)

I enjoyed when we had to trade goods with the workshop leader, I traded some rabbit skin for four spices from India, like nutmeg. David showed us some clothes that Vikings would have worn. Some had silk and a golden bow, to show how wealthy they were. (Rosa)

Remember that the clocks go forward by one hour on Sunday morning.

Piano Recital

Mrs Jackson's piano students performed a recital for their families earlier this week. It was a lovely opportunity for the children to perform on the grand piano for an audience.

Instrument tuition available in our school includes piano, violin, brass, recorder, voice and choir. Music theory lessons are also available. There is a fee for these lessons but children in receipt of the Pupil Premium grant may be eligible to receive a subsidy.

If your child is interested in learning an instrument, the contact details for our peripatetic teachers are available from the school office.

Reception children have been incubating a clutch of hens' eggs as part of their learning about growth and change.

The children watched as the chicks hatched.

The chicks were taken back to the farm today.

FOSTAS News: Easter Art Competition

Make sure you hand in your designed Easter Egg Art sheets by Monday 1st April so they can be displayed and judged. And don't forget to tape your £1 coin. All funds raised will support resources and school trips. Winners will be announced at the end of term assembly.

FOSTAS have received some amazing Easter egg entries and have therefore decided to offer an extra prize for the class with the most entries.
